“ Since learning of Jason's passing , I have found myself asking why such things happen? Why great individuals are taken away from us? I conclude that only God knows. That understanding the questions I have are beyond my abilities. I have known Jason for several years through the railroad. I have spent many long days and nights with Jason. The most memorable is sitting on the front of a locomotive in downtown Knoxville people watching and between him and I poking fun at them. When we did have the opportunity to work together 98% of the time are conversations were centered around God and his dedication as a Mason. All I can do is look back and smile about such things and pleased to have had such opportunities. I wish each of Jason's family members nothing but the best of luck. I know things are difficult now and probably for a bit into the future. But stand tall and keep the faith and find comfort in God who will see each of you guys through this time. I pray for y'all a speedy recovery.

“ My heart breaks for his wonderful kids and dad. His world revolved around you guys. I've heard so many stories of love and pride about all of you. Ray you were his rock and I love you for how nice and caring you always were. Drew and Sarah he was busting with pride about you both. He was so happy with the wonderful adults you became. Camden I was lucky enough to see first hand how loving and proud of you he was when you were born. What a blessing he was for those of us that knew him well. God has gained a great man
