“ Josh, you started out as my brothers best friend. It wasn't long until we considered you part of the family. We have so many great memories with you. You were the most loyal of friends and had such a big heart. You will be so missed. You are forever in our hearts. Can't wait to see you again someday.

“ You were my brothers best friend. Then you were my friend. Then my brother too. You were never embarrassed to sit with me at lunch when everyone else was, and you hated all my boyfriends just like a brother would. We almost burned down subway working there leaving a warmer on when you covered for me so I wouldn't get in trouble. Always peeked your head in my bedroom door asking if I was ok after a big teenage fight with mom. Calls when I left home at 18 wondering when I was coming back to Tennessee because “you only have one family and they miss you”. You cared about all the little things that I was too dumb to see at the time. You appreciated things and stopped to look around. I know since I got married we didn't talk and hang out like when we were kids, but I always considered you my family, my brother. You became more than just my brothers best friend. You're loyal and caring and a good friend when I didn't deserve one. I would always get excited when Colton would say you were with him because that meant I got to see you too! I love you josh... rest easy with Marcus until we are all together again

“ Josh was and always will be my brother and my best friend. I've know Josh since 7th grade when I moved from Maryland to Tennessee. He befriended me, even though I was the new kid. Growing up, we were always close. He was always at my house growing up. Throughout our adult years, we distanced a little just because of life, work and kids. But Josh was 1000% ALWAYS there for me when I needed him. From working on houses and cars, to just being there to listen to me vent on the phone, Josh was always there for me. Josh was the most loyal of friends and above all was my brother. Josh was such a great person. I will always love and miss you Josh. I can't wait until we see each other again. Thank you for changing my life brother.
